Service Design 1

Overview

Purpose

This service audit aimed to understand the sites, tasks and flows in the Eden food bank Mississauga location. The findings are to be analyzed and used to ideate solutions.

Methods

In this audit, the researcher visited the Mississauga location of Eden food bank. The manager of Eden will guide the team through the front and back of the site. The research team also had time to interview the manager about the task flows and user's experience.

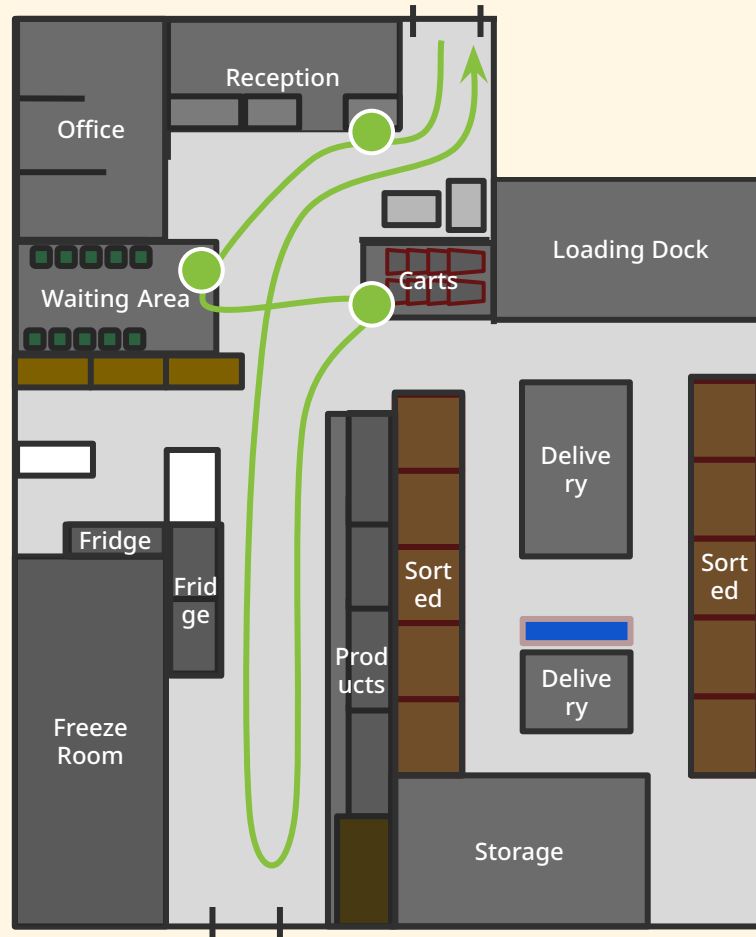

Main Findings

- Reaching to people in need and guide them to the correct location can be challenging.
- The first time experience at the food bank can be challenging to shy users.

Pain Points

First-time users

- some people go to wrong location(other foodbank) in the postcode area
- First time users can be too shy or insecure to go to the food bank
- Manager have to tell members to come later when they arrive early

Shopping

- It takes 11 minutes for a person to go through the entire process and this time limit causing limitations to number of people who can get foods in the opening time (Currently building online shopping experience)

Inventory

- It take time to move products the other side of the warehouse
- October to June they get so many food say they have to use another storage
- June to September food shortage they need to buy food but it takes two month to actually arrive
